

Interdependence Day and the Asian Moon Festival

Asian Studies and Performance Music at the University of Scranton (other sponsors include the Office of Equity and Diversity, the Schemel Forum, the Taipei Cultural Center of the Taipei Economic and Cultural Office in New York, and the Taiwan Council of Cultural Affairs)

A Music Journey to the East—Silk and Bamboo (Chinese Chamber Music Performance)
September 11, 2011
Houlihan-Mclean Center at the University of Scranton

In celebration of Interdependence Day and the Asian Moon Festival, Asian Studies in collaboration with Performance Music at the University of Scranton bring you the Chai Found Music Workshop, one of the foremost Sizhu (Chinese chamber music) ensembles in the world to Northeast Pennsylvania. Chai Found is active on the international stage and has been invited to perform at numerous international music festivals and concerts at Barcelona, Spain; Warsaw, Poland; Vienna, Austria; Berlin, Germany; Vancouver, Canada, etc. Chai Found has also toured the following countries: England, France, Germany, Holland, Japan, Korea, Lithuania, the Philippines, and United States. While preserving the tradition of traditional Chinese chamber music, Chai Found has been innovative in its collaboration with many contemporary music ensembles from Europe, United States, and Asia on producing experimental music that explores new sounds and melodies. In celebration of Interdependence Day, Chai Found symbolizes the spirit of interdependence in its successful bridging the Eastern and Western cultures, the traditional and the contemporary, with the sound of music that transcends cultural boundaries and barriers.

Note: The concert performance on September 11 requires no reservation. A hands-on educational workshop will take place on the following day (9/12), from 1 pm to 2:30 pm at the Brennan Hall, Fifth Floor, 509. All are welcome. Free of charge. Due to limited seating, reservations are required for the 9/12 workshop. Call 941-4094 for reservations.

Public Participation allowed (yes or no): Open to the Public, Free of Charge, Reservation is not Required.

Contact person and contact information: Ann Pang-White, Ph.D., Director of Asian Studies, 941-6312.

