

“Can you rise up at the sound of peace? Can you fingerprint the land with peace? Can you become a star reflecting peace?
Can your tongues flush peace?
Until peace becomes the noise of the planet

Until peace becomes the noise of the planet
(peaceEeeeeEeeeEeeee
EeeEeeeeee
EeeeEE)”
Sonia Sanchez

...[W]e must either learn to live together as brothers or we are going to perish together as fools.... [A]s nations and individuals, we are interdependent.
Martin Luther King, Jr.

“...we recognize our responsibilities to the common goods and liberties of humankind as a whole.”
Declaration of Interdependence

Print out this hexagon and use as the I-Day template. Create one and add to others. Collaborate on one; collaborate on many. The object is to illustrate creatively your ideas about and interpretation of the meaning of Interdependence. Use the readings provided or write your own. You may use text, storytelling, collage, poetry, essay, paint, drawing materials and 3-D materials [as long as they will not break when transported]. Keep entries this exact size [aspect ratio of 8” wide to 9” high]. Then, mail/deliver TO ARRIVE NO LATER THAN JUNE 30, 2009 [see contact info attached or go to idayscranton.org for complete details, inspiration, release forms, etc.].